

13 Air Assault Support Regiment RLC

Who are we? 13 Air Assault Support Regiment (13AASR) provides logistic support primarily to 16 Air Assault Brigade, elements of the Regiment also support UK Special Forces. Regimental personnel are part of and uphold a strong military ethos and spirit that is influenced by the airborne nature of 16 Brigade. An ethos and spirit that won't be found in any other RLC Regiment. It is the only RLC Regiment not to wear the RLC flash, instead wearing its' own DZ (Drop zone) Flash in the distinctive Red and Black. We wear the maroon beret of the Airborne Forces and a significant number of our officers and soldiers are Para trained.

Where are we? Colchester, Essex.

Our primary roles: 13 AASR's role is to generate and command Combat Service Support capability at graduated high readiness states in order to provide ready forces for: Air Assault Task Force; support to the Army's and Defence's wider outputs; in extremis, support to a Brigade multi-manoeuvre unit deployment.

Our trades: Drivers, Supply Specialists, Comms Specs, Air Despatch, Chefs and Pet Ops.

Our sporting focuses: Boxing, cross country, athletics and rugby. The Regt is also an avid supporter of individuals with particular talents in additional sporting fields, with personnel competing at the highest levels in snowboarding, fencing, rifle shooting and triathlon.
